

Introduce yourself and company

Welcome to the online version of Introduce yourself and company.

In this online course you will learn how to create an Elevator Pitch and work directly with your trainer online to perfect your own.

This course includes up to 5 hours of direct one-on-one interaction with your trainer. You'll see a "Chat with your trainer" icon located at the top of the course homepage with posted chat hours.

Although this is a free course it has restricted access limited to registered participants. Feel free to browse through the course modules and when you're ready to register, contact us for a login and password. Your login will enable both grading and access to your trainer.

When you've completed the course you'll receive a certificate of completion and be invited to participant in Presentation skills, the next course in our online series.

This course is presented on an easy to navigate, "Moodle" platform. Here is a step-by-step syllabus:

- I. Register and receive your login by sending an email to intro@jdooley.com.
- II. Listen to the opening lecture at www.jdooley.com
- III. Listen to the case study of Nick Jenkins and Moonpig.
- IV. Complete the "Cloze" quiz about Nick Jenkins and Moonpig. (The "Cloze" method combines listening and reading while you fill in the blanks.)
- V. Answer and submit essay questions about Nick Jenkins and Moonpig's elevator pitch.
- VI. Complete an associated grammar lesson by studying "present simple and continuous" verb tense and complete a short multiple choice quiz.
- VII. Create and submit essay question answers for your own elevator pitch.
- VIII. Receive your grade and certificate of completion for the course.
